As mentioned, alll this information I already provide.

I update Toggle with descriptions at the end of the month / first day of new month.

I do not send invoice the first chance I get - I sent invoice after I deliver work you assigned to me. You should familiarize yourself with information provided in weekly summaries, and check timestamps / chronology, so you'll realize what the order of things is.

So far, you mentioned to have it updated by end of the month, beginning of new month and that's what I've been doing. Around end of February, literally 3 working days after we spoke you changed these suddenly asking me to update those immediately - I'd have done so as per earlier arrangements - then insulted me again. You have not apparently reflected on these very unprofessional behaviors and you continue offending me and talking to me in a very funny tone.

I send invoice after work is delivered, providing you with detailed summaries each week.

You send your invoice the first chance you get, but missing descriptions in Toggle prevent me from doing the same for our customers. I realize, that I should have made intentions known beforehand, that I want to write the Invoice. I had not thought about, because thought this to be clear.

order and with fitting descriptions for billable projects by the start of the first Business day of a week for the previous week. The sames apply for the first Business day of a Month.

I wish you a nice weekend,

Jürgen.
